Notions des opérations de maintenance liée au management de la performance industrielle dite « Méthode TPM » (Total Productive Maintenance), qui consiste à développer la Méthode de Maintenance Périodique ou Planifiée (MMP), à la recherche de l'amélioration des équipements, des méthodes, et du savoir-faire des opérateurs de manière continue, afin de convertir le temps nécessaire à l'exécution de nettoyage fastidieux en des tâches d'inspections.

- D'intervenir en toute sécurité des personnes, de l'équipement et de l'environnement.

3. Méthode des 5 « S » (Sélectionner, Situer, Scintiller, Standardiser et Suivre), d'organisation visant à optimiser le lieu de travail pour afficher un comportement responsable et assurant la propreté et sécurité au poste de travail.

La méthode 5S, applicable à tout espace de travail (y compris les bureaux), constitue une forme de standardisation des postes de travail, par gestion visuelle. Elle fait en sorte qu'un employé puisse avoir quotidiennement, à portée de la main, l'information, les outils et le matériel requis pour effectuer sa tâche à son poste de travail, et ainsi travailler efficacement et de façon sécuritaire. L'objectif est d'instaurer des espaces de travail efficaces qui s'expliquent et se réglementent par eux-mêmes en tout temps, à l'aide de procédures et d'instructions visuelles.
